Sierra Blaca Peak, New Mexico

The Geology and Geochemistry groups at New Mexico Tech consist of nine regular faculty members and a large number of adjunct faculty. In addition, there are numerous researchers who specialize in geology and geochemistry at the New Mexico Bureau of Geology and Mineral Resources, which is located on campus. Many of these scientists actively participate in the supervision of graduate and undergraduate student projects.

The Geobiology program offers a PhD in Earth and Environmental Science with Dissertation in Geobiology.